Why return to learning when you're a bit older?

Furthering your goals

Going to university, retraining for a different type of work, or gaining important qualifications (such as English and maths) are all great reasons for returning to learning as an adult.

There's a wide range of courses available to suit your schedule, needs, and ambitions. Professional training options, for example, are available by distance learning. From customer service to business admin or understanding health and nutrition, there's a range of courses which can be studied at home in your own time – often for free.

If you want to enter higher education, an Access course will get you up to A level standard in just one year. Everyone on your course will be an adult and you'll be given guidance and support to apply for university. We also offer university-level courses and the chance to earn your full degree via our partnership university, De Montfort.

Broadening horizons

Going back to study can be a great way to broaden your horizons and meet new people. Evening classes are available in everything from Photoshop to beauty therapy; pop music history; digital photography; upholstery; dance, and more.

This type of evening course is a relatively low commitment, but gives you the freedom to explore something new. It can fit easily alongside your existing commitments and if you find you like it, there's often an option to study the subject at a higher level with us.

Moving On

Maybe the kind of course you're looking for is more practical in nature – first aid, for example, or maybe you need to gain your GCSEs or functional skills qualifications for the next step in your life. Parents often say that earning their GCSEs in maths and English help them to help their kids with their homework – but whether you're a parent or not, these qualifications are vital for most types of jobs and higher study options. We offer GCSE courses just for adults (for free) at various sites across the city.

Business, Enterprise and Law Courses

If you study more than one course with us in a single academic year, you get a discount of 10% on any subsequent courses you study at Leicester College.

Course Fee Payment Options

A lot of the time cost is a big barrier for adults looking to return to learning. At Leicester College, we're committed to widening access to education and there are a variety of options open to you which can make study more affordable.

Take a free course with us

A lot of Leicester College courses are totally free, although in each case certain criteria will apply. Before applying to a certain course, check in this guide or speak to us to check that you are eligible.

Examples of our free courses include:

- Adult maths and English courses
- The majority of our distance learning courses
- Work skills and other courses at our City Skills Centre

Pay for your studies with an Advanced Learner Loan

Advanced Learner Loans are government loans to help you pay for the cost of a course at a college or training provider in England. Your personal circumstances (such as your income) aren't taken into account, and there are no credit checks.

You will only pay back the loan when your course has finished and you're earning over £21,000 a year.

The loan is to pay your course fees. The minimum amount you can get is £300 and it's paid directly to the college or place where you study. If you want, you can pay part of your course fee yourself and use a loan to pay the remainder. You don't have to borrow the full amount. The loans will cover the cost of courses at levels 3, 4, 5, or 6, and you have to be at least 19 at the start of your course to be eligible. To find out more, see www.gov.uk/advanced-learner-loan

Get a discount for multiple courses, or pay in instalments

If your course fee is over £150, you're entitled to pay it in instalments to help spread the cost.

If you study more than one course with us in a single academic year, you get a discount of 10% on any subsequent courses you study at Leicester College.
