RECRUITMENT AND SELECTION POLICY AND PROCEDURES

PURPOSE AND PRINCIPLES

Leicester College is committed to the fair recruitment and selection of staff, its most valuable resource. It will strive therefore to eliminate harmful discrimination and aims to promote equality and diversity in all areas. Where appropriate, the College will use positive action to further the aim of the composition of its workforce reflecting the local community, which it serves. Within its Recruitment Practices the College is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children, young people and vulnerable adults. The College expects all staff and volunteers to share this commitment.

This Code of Practice will apply to all appointments made by Leicester College. Any changes or exceptions to the processes set down in this code will only be made with the full agreement of the Human Resources Department. The standards listed below underpin the Code of Practice and should be adhered to throughout the recruitment process.

1. Applicants will be treated on the basis of their skills, abilities and experience in accordance with the College's expressed values of Equality and Fairness. The aim is simply to appoint the best person for the job based on evidence obtained during the recruitment process.
2. The recruitment process must not only be fair but must also be seen to be fair. Those involved in the process must ensure that their actions do not create the impression that jobs are reserved for certain people.
3. The recruitment and selection process will be carried out in a confidential manner.
4. Applicants have the right to a quality service throughout their dealings with the College. This means that candidates should be treated with respect, have any concern addressed and be given explanation for non-appointment if requested.
5. At least one member of the recruitment and selection panel will be trained in the College's Code of Practice for Recruitment and Selection. Ideally, all members of the Panel will be trained in this area.
6. The Human Resources Department will monitor the effectiveness of, and compliance with, this Code of Practice. A representative of the Human Resources Department may join the recruitment and selection process at any stage of the procedure for this purpose.

1. VACANCY New post / Replacement / Change in post	Manager Manager	If this is a new post, ensure that the line Assistant Principal (if appropriate) and Deputy Principal agree with the proposed creation of the post. If this is an existing post, consider whether it is still required. If so, is it required in its current format - has there been a change in work patterns, or have organisational changes produced a different job? When ready to proceed, a staff requisition form must be completed. The following information should be attached electronically to the requisition; <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a structure chart if appropriate, • job description • person specification (see 2 and 3 below) • wording for advertisement and testing information. (See 4 and 5 below.) • Interview date(s). 	Where the post is new or has undergone significant revision, a job evaluation will be required. In this case, an organisational chart should also be provided showing the location of the post within the department It will not be possible to proceed with the recruitment process without a requisition.
2. Job Description	Manager	Draw up or update job description (see Appendix B) with support from HR as required. HR holds generic job descriptions for most jobs.	The job description should: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a) Give a clear, concise and readily understood description of the purpose of the job. b) List main duties and responsibilities as clearly as possible - avoid jargon, ambiguity or vague statements c) State each activity starting with a verb, e.g. "Carry out..." "Record..." "Supervise ..." "Manage..."

STEP	PERSON DEPT RESPONSIBLE	ACTIONS	GUIDANCE NOTES
			d) Contain nothing, which directly or indirectly discriminates without justification. (See Appendix C) e) Include safeguarding responsibilities.
3. Person Specification	Manager Manager/HR	HR holds generic person specifications for most jobs. Review generic person specification or for new jobs you will need to draft a person specification (Appendix D) including: a) Essential/desirable attributes and skills required in the post holder. b) The proposed method of selection for each of the job requirements – application form, interview, testing. (More than one method of selection may be used for each job requirement). c) safeguarding requirements d) equality and diversity requirements Person specifications are released to candidates during the recruitment and selection process. A summary of the key requirements will therefore be included in the job advert.	Key document in recruiting a suitable candidate and ensuring equality and diversity in selection. It outlines objective criteria about the job and the person required against which applicants can be compared and measured. Care must be taken to cover all essential requirements at this stage, and to properly separate essential from desirable. All elements must be justified requirements of the post and the wording should not directly or indirectly discriminate without justification. (Appendix C) It is not possible to address all criteria at the short-listing stage. Some requirements cannot be appropriately assessed from the application form – e.g. ability to prioritise. These criteria should be assessed at the interview / testing stage.
4. Advert Preparation	Manager/HR Manager	HR holds standard adverts for most jobs. Review and agree a concise advertisement using any necessary specific wording provided by originating department. Identify the short listing and interview panel members. Other than in circumstances referred to in section 9 below, those short listing should also interview.	a) There should be no differentiation between UK qualifications and their equivalent abroad, provided that these are recognised by the DFES. Guidance may be sought from HR or the Overseas Qualifications Development programme. b) Adverts should not contain any wording which could be discriminatory e.g. age restrictions. c) Salary (giving band and any starting restrictions) and special features e.g. fractional, fixed term, etc. will be given, together with the closing date for applications.

	Manager/HR	The dates when short listing and interview will take place. The date of interview to be included in the advert.	d) Information relating to Disclosure and Barring Service checks (DBS) will also be provided. (Appendix E). e) If applicable a BAME representative may be included as panel member. (See Appendix M).

STEP	PERSON/DEPT RESPONSIBLE	ACTIONS	GUIDANCE NOTES
5. Aptitude testing/ other assessment	Manager/HR Dept	Tests and assessments can provide valuable information on essential requirements of the post (e.g. the ability to absorb and apply rules, practices, etc), which may not easily be investigated at interview.	The HR Department holds a range of tests and exercises, including: a) Psychometric (aptitude) tests covering mathematical and verbal reasoning. These should form part of the selection process for managerial level posts. b) Psychometric (personality) tests are usually used as part of the selection process for more senior management posts. c) Psychometric (aptitude) tests for clerical, secretarial and administrative posts up to and including team leader. These cover clerical (checking, filing) basic mathematics (calculations, error spotting, estimation, problem solving) and verbal ability (spelling, vocabulary, language use and comprehension). d) a micro teach exercise will normally be undertaken as a minimum requirement for all teaching posts. e) Group exercises, such as joint planning and problem solving. Appropriately qualified HR staff must administer psychometric tests. Managers are requested to check their availability prior to confirming dates for selection. HR may not be able to provide staff to administer other tests, but are available to advise and guide.
	Manager/HR	Departments are actively encouraged to design job specific, assessments for use in selection, subject to HR approval. The content of such tests must be strictly justifiable against the duties of the post and reasonable adjustments are made for disabled applicants (See Appendix F).
	Manager/HR	Aptitude/assessment tests to be determined prior to advertisement before the interview dates and procedure are agreed.
	Manager/HR	Tests will be administered, scored and feedback given by suitably qualified persons.
		Candidates must be informed in advance of any arrangements for testing they are expected to undertake and likely timings.

		Appropriate notice needs to be given for candidates to prepare e.g. presentations. Normally this will be at least 5 days.	NB: If a candidate has a low test score they should not automatically be rejected, a decision should be made based on the overall selection process.

6. Advertising the Post	HR HR HR Cost centre budget holder and HR Managers/HR All	Advertise posts internally first unless agreed otherwise by the Director of HR in consultation with the line manager. 7. DETAILS TO APPLICANTS	HR	Details of all College vacancies will be placed on the HR database and will include: a) An online College application form b) An online Equality & Diversity monitoring form.	Depending upon the post, further details including more background on the post, department, College and Leicester City as well as the College prospectus may also be included.

8. APPLICATIONS RECEIVED	HR/Manager	Where applicants have defined themselves as having a disability on the monitoring form, this will be flagged by HR to the recruiting manager during the short listing process to ensure those who meet the essential criteria are invited for interview. See Appendix F	Disabled applicants who meet the essential criteria for the post are guaranteed an interview. The short listing panel should also ensure in conjunction with HR that any reasonable adjustments for the interview, if required, are made.

9. SHORTLISTING	Manager Short-listing Panel Short-listing Panel Chair of Panel HR	The short listing and interview panels will have been identified prior to advertisement. Where a candidate for the post is a relative or close friend of a member of the short listing or interview panel, this should be declared and will preclude their participation in the process. Other than in the circumstances above, members of the short-listing panel should also form part of the interview panel. Additional members may join the panel at the interview stage, but care should be taken to ensure the size of the panel does not appear intimidating. Select short list of candidates and agree reasons for/against short listing and record on short listing grid. The most senior trained member of the panel will be responsible for ensuring that the short-listing process is completed in accordance with equality principles. All documentation including the interview arrangements form (See Appendix H) should be completed appropriately and returned to HR as soon as possible and giving at least 7 working days prior to the interview assessment. It may not be possible for HR to process documentation, which arrives after this	Short listing must be carried out by a minimum of two people, ideally one male and one female. If applicable a BAME representative may be included as a panel member. (See Appendix M) Those short listing should also be on the interview panel and at least one must have undertaken training in Recruitment and Selection. Some essential criteria will be assessed through interview or testing rather than at this stage. The method of assessment should be identified on the person specification in the Method column, prior to the short listing commencing. On the short listing grid, list the criteria already identified for short listing assessment on the short-listing grid. Using the information provided from the application form assess whether each criteria is met against the person specification. (Section 3 above and Appendix G). Using these criteria identify which applicants meet these essential requirements and record this on the grid. Only applicants who meet all of the essential short-listing criteria that can be obtained from the application form should be short-listed. NB some essential criteria will be assessed through interview or testing rather than at this stage. Only use information included on the application form - do not make any assumptions or let previous knowledge influence judgements. The only exception to this might be where the applicant is recognised as an ex-employee who was dismissed or who left with disciplinary warnings on his /her file. In such a case advice should be sought from HR. Assess whether the remaining applicants are a feasible number to interview. If the pool is too large, compare the extent to which the applicants meet the desirable characteristics and record on the short-listing grid. If there are still too many candidates to interview, give weighting to each essential factor in the person specification and finally the desirable criteria if necessary.

		deadline, which could result in the postponement of the interview or assessment.	Alternatively to reduce the pool of candidates to invite to interview, consider whether pre-interview aptitude or job-related tests would be appropriate. If there are a small number of short listed candidates, the manager may decide to re-advertise before proceeding to the interview / assessment stage.

If this is not possible at least one panel member must be trained and this person should act as Chair and take the lead, giving guidance to the other Panel members if necessary. The questions to be asked should relate only to the person specification and job description. It may be helpful to prepare one (or more) specific question for each section of the person specification to be covered in the interview. Normally, similar lead questions covering these areas will be asked of each candidate, although supplementary probing questions may differ according to the answers given, and the individual's circumstances. You should specifically probe any gaps in employment or on the application form. A standard item on person specifications will be the requirement for all staff to demonstrate an awareness and commitment to safeguarding and student welfare. For staff working directly with children and vulnerable adults, to demonstrate suitability to work with children and vulnerable adults including a knowledge/understanding of safeguarding. Further guidance on asking safeguarding questions at interview is available at Appendix E. For all Lecturer posts, the candidate's commitment to undertake teaching qualifications, if not yet obtained needs testing. External candidates should provide two referees, one of whom should be from a current or most recent employer and the other should preferably be an employment reference. Character references should only be used as last resort where the person has little work experience e.g. Apprentices. This process also applies to part-time lecturing staff and irregular hours employees who are appointed to substantive positions. Internal candidates are required to provide one referee who should be their Head of Department or a manager nominated by the Head of Department for this purpose. Those applicants who require DBS disclosure checks will only be allowed to commence their employment prior to the disclosure being obtained with the agreement of their senior manager. Where this is necessary supervision arrangements must be made for them in order that they do not work unsupervised with students less than 18 years of age or vulnerable adults until a satisfactory disclosure has been obtained. See Appendix E for DBS guidance.

12. APPOINTMENT CONT'D	Chair of Panel Interview panel member/HR Chair of Panel / HR	Inform unsuccessful internal candidates first by phone if at all possible offering opportunity for feedback. (Feedback to be provided by a member of the interview panel.) Make sure reserve candidates are aware of their position in case the successful candidate declines the offer. Complete appointment details form and return to HR as soon as possible and within 2 days. Any provisional start date agreed should normally allow for a period of 15 working days (with a 5 day minimum) from receipt of the appointment details form by HR and start date to allow time for the completion of pre-employment checks. Inform unsuccessful external candidates offering feedback. (Feedback to be provided by a member of the interview panel.)	The feedback should be in the nature of a confidential discussion of the candidate's performance in the interview/assessment and his/her application. Feedback should be constructive but honest-it is important not to create false expectations. It may include advice about development issues. In cases of urgent start dates Managers must agree arrangements for pre-employment checks with HR. HR will undertake the following pre-employment checks: Eligibility to work in UK (see Appendix L) References (with the consent of the individual) Medical clearance Barring list check (where appropriate) Disclosure and Barring check (where appropriate)

Staff Requisition Authorisation Procedure

1. A staff requisition must be completed and authorised before taking action to recruit as follows:
 - To replace an existing jobholder on a 'like for like' basis. This would also include the recruitment of a temporary employee, secondee or acting up appointment to cover a permanent post that is vacant through, for example, long-term sickness or maternity leave.
 - To appoint to a new, additional or amended post that involves additional staff salary costs it is important that full details of how the additional/new post will be funded and any documentary evidence is attached.
 - To implement a reorganisation. Restructuring proposals to the Executive should include a list of existing posts together with details of those which continue unchanged, those which change and any new positions.

The above includes temporary and fixed term appointments (other than part-time lecturers).

Reductions in hours or vacancies that arise where there is no intention to replace (i.e. result in a staff saving) should be advised to HR so that appropriate changes can be made to the establishment list.

Note: There is no need for a staff requisition to be completed where a post is upgraded.

2. The line manager should attach the following to the online staff requisition:
 - A job description and person specification (including structure chart if possible)
 - Advert wording
 - Interview dates
3. Where the post is a new one and needs to be job evaluated HR will forward a short questionnaire to the manager for completion and a meeting with an HR Representative will take place to progress the grading.
4. All requisitions will initially be received by finance who will check whether there are any budgetary implications. The requisition will then be forwarded to the appropriate Assistant Principal before being forwarded to the appropriate Deputy Principal or Principal for approval. All requisitions are also signed by the Director of Human Resources prior to being sent to the Executive.
5. Requisitions will not be forwarded for Executive consideration until approval has been given at all stages of the above process.
6. The Director of Human Resources will take those requisitions which have been approved to the weekly Executive meeting (normally on Tuesday) for final approval. Where requisitions are 'held' pending further consideration e.g. further information required, they will be annotated accordingly. The Executive will also receive a full list of all requisitions raised for information.

7. If no appointment has been made against a staff requisition after 6 months from the date of authorisation a further requisition will normally be needed to progress recruitment.
8. HR will make the necessary changes to the establishment and advise line managers of the outcome of the authorisation process.

Discrimination

Introduction

During the recruitment and selection of employees the College has a legal duty under the Equality Act 2010 to ensure that unlawful discrimination does not take place on the grounds of a protected characteristic:

- age;
- disability;
- gender reassignment;
- marriage and civil partnership;
- pregnancy and maternity;
- race;
- religion or belief;
- sex;
- sexual orientation

The recruitment and selection process must be fair and consistent at all times. This document outlines the types of discrimination that must be avoided.

Direct discrimination

Direct discrimination would occur during recruitment and selection if a person were treated less favourably on the grounds of a protected characteristic. As part of the recruitment and selection process this could include:

- Failure to shortlist a candidate
- Failure to recruit a candidate to a post

Indirect discrimination

Indirect discrimination occurs when a provision or a criteria is applied which disadvantages people because of a protected characteristic.

Examples of indirect discrimination that could occur during the recruitment and selection process include:

- A requirement of a fluent English speaker for a post that does not require this skill.
- The non-recognition of an overseas qualification that is comparable with a domestic qualification.

Job descriptions/person specifications

It is important that job descriptions and person specifications only contain requirements that are essential and relevant to the position.

The inclusion of unnecessary or marginal information in a job description or person specification can lead to discrimination.

For example if it was stipulated that a full driving licence was essential for a position that required very little travelling, this could prevent a disabled person from being short-listed despite meeting all the other criteria. It is likely that it would be a reasonable adjustment for the employer to allow the limited travelling for the position to be done by means other than driving a car e.g. by bus or taxi.

Leicester College application form

The College online application form has two sections. The first part collects information directly relevant to the applicant's suitability to the job in terms of their skills, knowledge and qualifications. The second part of the application form contains information that relates to the applicants personal details, the Equality Act, equality and diversity monitoring and the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act.

The second section of the application form is not sent to the recruiting manager to ensure that only the information relevant to the job is used in the short-listing process to avoid any discriminatory practice.

Candidates will be selected for interview from the information they have provided on the application form. This information will be scored against the essential and desirable criteria included on the person specification.

Disabled applicants that meet the essential criteria are guaranteed an interview.

Preventing discrimination at Interview

Panel members must not ask candidates questions that relate to:

- Marriage prospects
- Religion or belief
- Sexual orientation
- Care arrangements for dependent children
- Family plans
- Age

Panel members should prepare their questions in advance by looking through the person specification and plan the questions they will need to ask to cover the main skills they are looking for.

Panel members should ask the same core questions of all candidates with tailored follow up questions.

Objective criteria only should be used as a method of selection. For example panel members should not rely on a recommendation by word of mouth.

Non-acceptability by colleagues is not a legitimate reason for rejecting a candidate. This is to protect individuals from prejudice, for example resistance to women being employed in posts that have been predominantly occupied by men.

Each panel member should keep detailed notes of the interviews for them to be able to demonstrate the basis of their decision-making and to provide adequate feedback to candidates.

Preventing discrimination during testing

Panel members should ensure that any tests that are used during the selection process are non-discriminatory and relevant to the position they are recruiting for.

The HR Department holds a number of testing tools and materials that are fair and free from bias that can be used for a range of posts.

If a selection panel wishes to devise a test for use in a selection process they should liaise with a member of the HR Department who will assess whether the test is non-discriminatory and appropriate to use as part of a selection procedure.

Decision Making

The final selection decision should involve all panel members. The decision of the panel should be based on objective evidence gained during interview and testing.

The evidence should be assessed against the criteria detailed on the person specification using the scoring system detailed in the College recruitment and selection code of practice.

This should be done as a collective process where each decision is jointly discussed and agreed upon.

The candidate selected for appointment will be the candidate that most closely matches the person specification and has achieved the highest score.

Completion of a Person Specification Guidance Notes

- A person specification is held in HR for all existing posts.
- If you wish to alter the essential criteria on an existing person specification you should liaise with an HR Advisor prior to making any changes.
- Criteria to be included on the person specification should be listed under essential and desirable in the following categories:

Qualifications

Knowledge

Experience

Skills

Approach

Attendance

- Guidance is included in the Recruitment and Selection Code of Practice on formulating criteria for a person specification and how to avoid discrimination.
- Each criteria should be numbered and its method of assessment indicated on the specification using the following key:

A	Application Form
T	Test
I	Interview
P	Presentation
O	Observation (Teaching Posts only)

- Applicants should then be assessed against each criterion by the appropriate method during the recruitment and selection process.
- Criteria that cannot be assessed as part of the recruitment and selection process should not be included on the person specification.
- Each criteria following assessment should scored under one of the following categories:

1	Poor
2	Satisfactory
3	Good
4	Excellent

- Following completion of the selection process all candidates should be scored against the criteria included on the person specification. Weighting x 2 should be applied to the essential criteria. (See page 12 of the recruitment and selection code of practice).

Safeguarding and Recruitment

Guidance for interview panels

All job descriptions and person specifications for roles in Leicester College contain reference to each member of staff's responsibility for safeguarding. The person specification requirements are as follows:

- For all staff
Demonstrate an awareness and commitment to safeguarding and student welfare.
- For staff working directly with children and adults
Demonstrate suitability to work with children and adults including a knowledge/understanding of safeguarding.

(Note: Recruiting managers when reviewing the job description and person specification before starting the recruitment process should check that the appropriate safeguarding references are included in the documentation).

At the interview the panel should follow up on any possible issues on the application form which might give rise to safeguarding concerns. For example:

- Any gaps in the application form
- Any gaps in employment history
- Lack of clarity over the reason given for leaving a job with child responsibilities
- Comments in the application that might indicate unsound reasons for wanting to work with children or values/ethics that are inconsistent with the College's values.

The interview panel should ensure that candidates meet the above safeguarding requirements by asking questions using the examples set out in attachment 1. There are two schedules of questions relating to the two criteria.

One question from schedule 1 needs to be asked of all candidates applying for any vacancy in the College.

A second question needs to be asked from schedule 2 where candidates will be involved directly in teaching or working with children and adults.

The questions may be altered to fit the particular circumstances of the role and interviewers may also develop their own questions to test candidates' suitability and knowledge/understanding of safeguarding. HR should be advised of any 'new' questions so that a comprehensive bank of safeguarding questions can be maintained.

If as result of the interview there are safeguarding concerns about any candidate the situation can be discussed with HR. In the context of safeguarding all offers of employment are subject to:

- A check of identity documents
- Satisfactory references which include a question of safeguarding
- A satisfactory DBS disclosure as appropriate
- A check on qualifications as appropriate.

Guidance relating to Applicants with a Disability

Everyone involved in recruitment and selection within the College should be aware of the provisions under the Equality Act 2010 relating to Disability and the implications it has during the recruitment and selection of staff.

Under the Act all those involved in the recruitment and selection of staff have a duty to:

- Not to treat people defined as disabled by the Act less favourably than they would treat others, for reasons related to disability.
- Not to discriminate in the way arrangements for and offers of employment are made as a result of any physical features of the premises used for employment purposes.
- To make reasonable adjustments to remove any substantial disadvantage faced by someone with a disability or health condition, which may include allowing appropriate support or facilities for the person with a disability at interview and more interview time if there is a discussion of issues related to the disability and reasonable adjustments at interview.

Applicants with disabilities should be assessed, as they would be if any reasonable adjustments required under the Act had been made.

Job Descriptions and Person Specifications

It is important that requirements included on job descriptions and person specifications clearly relate to the duties of the post.

Including unnecessary or marginal requirements can lead to discrimination.

Recruitment Advertisements

Each recruitment advert states that the College is a member of the disability symbol user scheme.

Advertisements can be made available in a range of formats including:

Large print
Braille
CD

College Application Form

The College application form can be made available in alternative formats. These include:

- Large print
- E-mail
- Floppy Disk
- Audio- tape
- Braille
- CD

These alternative formats ask for the same information as the College standard application form.

Additional information about a vacancy e.g. the job description and job details can also be made available in an alternative format.

Section two of the College application form asks candidates whether they consider themselves to have a disability and if they require any adjustments to attend interview or to do the job.

Asking candidates for this information at the beginning of the recruitment process should help reassure applicants with disabilities that the College is taking its responsibilities under the Equality Act seriously.

Short-listing

An applicant who states that they have a disability is guaranteed an interview if they meet the essential criteria under the 'Two Ticks' Disability Symbol User Scheme of which the College is a member.

It is important that members of a short-listing panel understand what a reasonable adjustment can mean in terms of the recruitment and selection process.

Examples of a reasonable adjustment that may assist a candidate with a disability at interview include:

- Overcoming problems with accessibility by holding interviews in a ground floor room
- Arranging accessible car parking
- Providing sign language interpretation

Notification to interview candidates

Emails inviting candidates to interview ask if they have any special requirements at interview due to a disability. If a candidate has already informed the College of their disability on their application form and they are short-listed for interview; a member of the HR Department will contact them to establish what reasonable adjustments, if any, are required in order for them to attend the interview.

Selection Interviews

Selection interviews should be objective and non-biased. It is important that when a person with a disability is interviewed the interview panel do not let any misconceptions about a disability influence their view on whether the candidate can do the job.

Any questions the panel wish to ask about a person's impairment should only relate to their ability to do the job.

It may be helpful to allow the individual to guide the interview panel through their impairment and how it may affect them at work. This will enable the interview panel to find out whether an adjustment is required for the individual to the job and what that might be.

It is important that an interview panel do not make assumptions about an individual's ability to perform certain tasks. People with disabilities often develop solutions to everyday tasks with or without the need for technical aids or personal support.

Testing

On occasion it may be necessary to revise tests, the way results of such tests are assessed or administered to take account of applicants with disabilities.

For example a person with a hearing impairment may have difficulty in following oral instructions or a person with dyslexia may take longer to read questions.

The HR Advisors can be contacted for further advice and guidance.

Decision making

The important question an interview panel must ask is often not whether a person with a disability is the best person for the job, but whether they would be the best person for the job if a reasonable adjustment were made.

While the College must follow the above, and ensure that people with disabilities are interviewed and considered for selection fairly, it does not have to employ a person with a disability if they are not the best person for the job.

For example:

- If they do not have the necessary skills or experience
- If another applicant has better skills or experience
- If the applicant with a disability is less suitable for the job, having taken into account reasonable adjustments

However, a person's disability must not be used as the reason for not employing them.

Preventing Illegal Working

The government requires all employers to check certain types of documentation for proof of a person's right to work in the UK and to do the type of work that is being offered. These checks have to be completed before the potential employee has started working for the College. The College is at risk of committing a criminal offence and receiving a fine if it fails to carry out these checks and a person is found to be working illegally for the organisation.

These checks are in addition to those required for DBS purposes.

The College will have to check and photocopy certain documents prior to a potential employee commencing employment.

All offers of employment will be made subject to these checks being satisfactorily completed.

Procedure

The potential employee will be informed by the College HR Department what original documents they are required to bring to the College HR Department in person prior to their start date. The potential employee cannot commence employment at the College until these checks are completed.

1. Appointment details are received by the HR Department a minimum of 15 working days prior to a proposed start date. If exceptional circumstances exist and the above timescale cannot be complied with, the manager concerned should discuss this with the HR Department prior to interviews taking place. This is to allow for alternative arrangements to be made. If alternative arrangements are not made, the proposed start date may have to be revised to allow the appropriate checks to take place.
2. An offer letter will be sent to the potential employee informing them of the documentation they are required to bring to the HR Department in person to demonstrate their right to work in the UK and to do the type of work that is being offered.
3. The letter will ask the potential employee to telephone a named contact in the HR Department prior to their proposed start date. The employee will have 2 options:
 - To arrange an appointment prior to their start date with a member of the HR Department.
 - The employee will be asked what sort of documentation they intend to bring to their appointment.
4. When the potential employee brings their documentation to the HR Department an HR representative must be satisfied that the potential employee is the rightful holder of any of the documents they present.
 - A photocopy of certain parts of the documentation must be taken.

The photocopied documentation should be kept with employee's personal record.

When reporting to the HR Department in addition to the above documentation the potential employee will also be asked to bring with them where applicable their completed DBS form and required documentation. A DBS check will be completed at the appointment along with the above checks.

5. Exceptions to the standard procedure

If the standard procedure cannot be complied with e.g. in the case of some part time lecturer recruitment, early morning cleaning staff recruitment or urgent recruitment the interview panel will be required to undertake the necessary checks.

In these circumstances a manager should contact the HR Department prior to interviews taking place. A revised invite to interview letter will be sent and an HR representative will provide a member of the interview panel with the necessary training to check documentation.

7. Documentation required to demonstrate right to work in the UK

In order to comply with the law all candidates are required to provide acceptable original documents demonstrating their right to work in the UK. The documents are set out in two lists – List A and List B.

List A contains the range of documents which may be accepted for checking purposes for a person who has a permanent right to work in the UK. By viewing these documents we can establish a continuous statutory excuse for the duration of your employment with us.

List B contains the range of documents which may be accepted for checking purposes for a person who has a temporary right to work in the UK. By viewing these documents we can establish a time-limited statutory excuse. We will be required to carry out a follow-up check as set out below.

Inclusion of BAME representatives in selection processes

1. Introduction

Leicester College is committed to developing its staffing profile to better reflect the learner population of the College. To help achieve this objective BAME representatives are asked to participate in the selection of staff for certain posts within the College. Research shows that both internal and external candidates from BAME backgrounds often feel more confident about the fairness of recruitment processes if a member of a BAME group is involved. BAME applicants also report often performing better at interview in such circumstances.

2. Procedure

- 2.1 BAME representatives will be used on interview panels for posts that are graded PO or Management Spine A and above. Some teaching posts will also be included in curriculum areas where BAME representation amongst teaching staff is particularly low.
- 2.2. The BAME representatives on interview panels would be drawn from existing BAME supervisors/managers within the College.
- 2.3 All BAME representatives will have attended the College recruitment training programme and a positive action in recruitment course.
- 2.4 BAME representatives will participate fully in the selection process including short listing, interviewing and decision making.
- 2.5 BAME representatives will advise the interview panel on issues relating to equality and positive action.
- 2.6 The HR Department will allocate BAME representatives on a rota basis to limit the amount of time individual representatives are required to attend panels
